Storms and fire, they precede him, He's shaking the earth

Gentle whispers, they follow, they follow

A raging tempest consumes him, twisting and turning towers of incense the billow, wrapping around him

When YHWH passes by

Look away, look away from his face

The Lofty One

Look away, look away

When YHWH passes by

He'll take your breath away

Crashing oceans are boiling and rising to mist
Shining stars, they are falling under his feet
Prideful mountains are burning and melting like wax
All other God's, they are ruined, crumbling away

When YHWH passes by
Look away, look away from his face
The Lofty One
Look away, look away
When YHWH passes by
He'll take your breath away

Love and faithfulness, they are meeting meeting this day

Peace and righteousness, they are kissing

kissing away

When YHWH passes by

Look away, look away from his face

The Lofty One

Look away, look away

When YHWH passes by

He'll take your breath away

Please take my breath away
